

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A DNA sample added with a plurality of fluorescent marks is irradiated with excitation lights having a plurality of wavelengths and when fluorescence intensities are detected separately, the excitation light and a position on the sample are relatively changed over a desired area once to thereby detect the plurality of fluorescent marks at high speed.

10053976.011802